Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 41 and 42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 41, the recited terms "the front side" and "the identification code" are without antecedent basis in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-8 and 41-42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bao et al.

See paragraph 10 of the last office action.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 9-19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 12-11-2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that the instant claims require the specific sequence of steps performed in the following order: exposing a slide on an array to a sample, mounting the slide to a slide holder, inserting the slide holder into an array reader, and finally reading the array with the array reader. Applicant further asserts that Bao et al fail to teach this sequence of steps. The argument is not persuasive because the instant invention, as claimed, does not limit the invention to the specific sequence argued by applicant. The preamble to claim 1 recites "A method of reading and array ... which array has been previously exposed to a sample." This preamble limitation is clearly met by Bao et al. The body of claim 1 notably makes not recitation as to the step of exposing the array to a sample. Rather, the actual steps recited to perform the claimed method require only that a slide is mounted on a slide holder, then inserted into an array reader, and then read. These steps are also clearly met by Bao et al. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 41-42 are similarly not persuasive because the instant claims require only that the array is read from the same side as a bar code. These steps are clearly taught by Bao et al, irrespective of the stated purpose or time of reading the array as compared with the reading of the bar code.

In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
